Procedure

Introduction	Engaging in continuous improvement means regularly making informed changes to operations and practices (big and small), resulting in improved outcomes for children. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> As a P-6 school, Soldiers' Settlement Preschool is guided by the School Excellence Framework (SEF) and the National Quality Framework (NQF). Educators make conscious efforts to ensure the preschool statement of philosophy drives the work of our educators forward with purpose. Dedicated preschool staff meetings will be held within the preschool to review and update preschool procedures, QIP goals for improvement and reflection of practice as a team. These form part of our end of day reflection meetings as well as scheduled fortnightly team meetings.
Philosophy review	The preschool philosophy's purpose is to show the whole community's shared values for the children at the preschool The preschool statement of philosophy will be reviewed annually. During Term 1, each stakeholder will be given a copy of the current philosophy and prompting questions to help them reflect and add suggestions to the document. These stakeholders include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Preschool educators Preschool children in attendance of the current year Parents and family of children in attendance of the current year School executive team Aboriginal Education Officer Information is then collated by staff, reviewed, and decisions are made of how to update the philosophy to reflect all stakeholder's voices. The new draft philosophy is distributed to stakeholders to check and make any final changes before it is published. The published philosophy will be shared via:

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Displays in the preschool • Preschool website • Printed copy handed to all stakeholders
Self-assessment	The purpose of the self-assessment is to document what the preschool is doing well and potential areas for improvement. It involves individuals and teams thinking critically about how and why things are done. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • During this assessment, a range of things are reviewed, including but not limited to compliance with regulatory standards, practices against the NQS, alignment of the educational program with the philosophy and EYLF. • Self-assessment against the NQS drives continuous improvement and is essential to providing quality outcomes for children. (Guide to the NQF, 2018) • Educators will use the self-assessment working document to identify service strengths, areas of compliance, practices that are Exceeding NQS, and areas and opportunities for quality improvement. • Staff will utilise some of their end of day reflection time to critically reflect on the educational program. The educational program will also be reviewed at times during executive meetings and staff will have opportunities to compare programs at preschool network meetings. • Self-assessment is regularly part of preschool meetings. This may form part of the end of day reflection meetings where all preschool educators from that day are present, at whole school weekly staff meeting and at executive meetings. This ensures all staff members' ideas and perspectives are included. • Quality areas are reviewed at point of need or in line with related procedures. • Feedback, complaints and records of serious incidents are collected, analysed and incorporated into meeting discussions

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Early childhood newsletters, books, research articles, network meetings and learning from professional workshops inform self-assessment discussions • Our school is a P-6 school, so all decisions are made in consideration with all year levels in mind, including preschool. The preschool will also be included in whole school assessments, including the school validation process. • Goals are identified through feedback from all stakeholders. They are documented in the QIP, and continually reflected upon to ensure progress towards them.
Documentation of the outcomes of the self-assessment	The outcomes of the self-assessment must be documented in either the QIP template or Self Assessment and Planning (SAaP) app. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The QIP can be viewed at any time via the preschool laptop in the preschool information foyer. This provides an opportunity for all staff, families and visitors to read and provide input into the continuous improvement of the preschool to provide a quality learning environment for our children. • The preschool assistant principal is responsible for adding the updates and progress notes after discussion with preschool team. This is undertaken during RFF and after school hours. • The QIP is a continuous working document that is formally scheduled for review yearly or earlier when required. • Progress of the goals are discussed at regularly at meetings with preschool educators and school executive. • Families will be encouraged to provide input at any time throughout the year through reminders in newsletters and by engaging in conversations about the QIP at arrival and pickup times.
Implement, evaluate and	It is recommended that any identified changes be trialled for a set period to evaluate if the change has the desired impact and to determine if an review	improvement has been made. All staff will play a part in this evaluation that will assess how the changes have had a positive impact. The preschool assistant principal will update related procedures and the QIP accordingly.

	The review of procedures ensures educators understand their role and responsibilities and ensures a consistency of approach and embedded practice. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The preschool assistant principal is responsible for keeping the team on track with reviews. • Procedure reviews may include the following stakeholders as appropriate: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ preschool educators ○ the principal ○ preschool children in attendance of the current year ○ parents and family of children in attendance of the current year ○ school executive team
Procedures – Families	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • During orientation, families are informed of many procedures and are given printed copies of relevant procedures as part of the parent information pack. They are also shown in the parent information session how to access the preschool website and how to review any of the preschool procedures at their own leisure. Families at any time may access the preschool laptop in the parent information foyer to review procedures. • During review of procedures families are shown procedures in the Dojo app. They are also told to refer to the Dojo app to look at the procedures and give us feedback. During parent information sessions, parents are also shown the procedures we are currently reviewing and given the chance to give feedback.

Procedures – Storage and accessibility	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Procedural changes are recorded at the bottom of each procedure and communicated to all stakeholders through meetings and discussions with staff and via the school website and discussion with families. A printed copy of all procedures is stored in a folder in the preschool office.
